

Summer is nearly over – jumpers & heating are on !

Well I do hope you have had a good summer and Hurricane Bertha did not catch you as it did my Summer Collagraph workshop.

We had left this gazebo just before it was whipped up and twisted into a ball and flung into the next door garden with broken poles and torn canvas. Luckily all the work was inside my studio but a lucky escape for 7 very shocked students and one grey haired teacher ! Makes you very wary of Summer outdoor workshops!

On a more positive note, I have been working extremely hard on redecorating my upstairs studio which now looks very swish with beautiful racking, white walls and electrics that help me see the artwork when I am mounting them, placing them into the frames and signing them off before going onto the purpose built racking. Exhausted but very pleased with the results.
