

Thought I would put an extra newsletter in the summer block as weather is still warm and I have two exhibitions to tell you about that are coming up soon - see below for details.

Had a busy summer with workshops, all full classes - the students were shown some of my new techniques and some of them used these effects on their prints with great success - I think the students enjoyed the whole experience .

I have finally got the dates together for the Autumn Collagraph Workshops in my studio

– sorry for the delay– some of you were asking, they are :

Platemaking : Wed 23rd & Sat 26th November

Printing ; Thurs 24th & Sun 27th November – see website for booking form.

I have also been busy booking venues for next year - three in total, some have exciting workshops connected - so very pleased to get my 2017 exhibition programme together – gallery spaces get booked up so early these days .

Picked up a good contact from House & Garden event in London - she wants to promote and sell my work and she has quite a few turnkey jobs - interior jobs that require complete fit, so the client can walk straight into the property even down to food in the fridge (probably just champagne, for the type of client she deals with !) – so good news for me as it means art on the walls !
