'Where are we Going' U.K. Tour

at Walkern Gallery

10th - 30th September 2012

Solo exhibition - also including
Herts Open Studio

The beautiful country Gallery in Walkern, Hertfordshire is hosting our thought provoking exhibition on its third leg of my UK. tour. The response has been fantastic with so many people seeing the images reading the poetry and feeling moved by the content and, we hope, responding to the Global shift .

I have created many images of hope in this collection as I feel, Humans despite our foibles, are very resourceful. We can move our mindset to create long term methods by which the world will work, not only surviving but flourishing, leaving a world of plenty for the children of the future.

Steve Thorp the contemporary poet who has written all the beautiful poems that accompanies this exhibition will be in the gallery giving poetry readings on the 21st Sept as part of our candlelit World Peace Gathering and preview night. World Peace Day.

21st Sept Private view 7:00 pm - 9:30 pm

Extra Info about World Peace Day.

World Peace day is held every year around the world. This year it is bigger than ever with many more countries holding huge gatherings creating what they are calling the Pulse of Peace. At these gatherings people are sitting in quiet collective contemplation to radiate the message of peace at 12 midnight at the start and end of the day and at midday - in the U.K. it is 5:00 am , 5:00 p.m. and 5:00 am the following day. We will lock into this energy at Walkern gallery at 8:00p.m. around our peace candles for a few minutes of collective contemplation.
