

I'm sending an extra summer newsletter to keep you up to date with exhibitions and the fast changing news from my neck of the woods. Things have been extremely busy this end as we are moving house and I am getting a brand new studio, very big and very excited. Some of you have come to my studio and seen the limitations in space so I am hoping in the coming years of my life I will create some amazing art and lots more books, etc. Sorry to say I am saying goodbye to my collagraph workshops as I do not intend to do any workshops in my new house - it is full of cream carpets and I'm now a nervous artist !
 So, the summer workshops, now fully booked, will be the last and I am sorry to anyone who always wanted to do a collagraph workshop. But, there will be a lot of technical books, possibly Youtube videos, if I can get my head around the technicalities and other teaching vehicles coming out of my new premises.
 All it leaves me to say is that it has been a real pleasure to teach the hundreds of students who have passed through my studio and at the many art events I have taught at over the years.
